COMPLIANCE

TRAINING LIBRARY

Your organisation may have its own operational and human resources policies and procedures, which are perfect candidates for custom topics you create in Tribal Habits.

However, you also need to provide training to your staff and managers on understanding and complying with workplace regulations. This is where our COMPLIANCE library plays a valuable role. Reviewed by Australian subject matter experts for Australian organisations.

COMPLIANCE LIBRARY FEATURES

High-quality Australian content
Our topics are all created in Australia by recognised Australian subject matter experts (all topics reviewed annually by leading law firm McCullough Robertson).

Consistent and modern experience
Each topic uses the powerful Creator tools in Tribal Habits to capture and share content. As a result, all topics have the same navigation, layout, flow and style. They work as a complete set of training topics with a consistent experience for your staff.

Built-in assessments
All Compliance topics include graded assessments to ensure engagement and understanding by your staff. Assessments offer randomised process and all answers and results are fully tracked and reportable.

Styled in your organisation's branding
Our Compliance topics can be imported into your own branded, secure Tribal Habits portal. This means topic appears in your organisation's branding and is available 24/7 to your staff in any location.

Detailed completion records and certificates
Topic completion data is recorded for all staff, with online filtering, manager views and CSV download for detailed offline filtering (including up to 20 fields of customer user demographics). Staff receive downloadable completion certificates with unique certificate numbers and key topic details.

Due dates and reaccreditation periods
Our Compliance topics can include due dates (based on individual enrolment dates or specified completion dates) as well as re-accreditation periods to trigger re-enrolment in the topic.

Version control and updates
Our Compliance topics have detailed version control. Topic completion data includes the topic version number. You are notified when a new topic version is available and can instantly update your version (including reviewing version notes).

Automated enrolment and notifications
Compliance topics have all the same powerful training automation features as Creator topics. You can automate self-enrolment libraries based on staff demographics and enable various notifications for learners, managers and other stakeholders. This includes a range of optional completion reminders, with escalation to managers and supervisors.

Use stand-alone or combine with your content
Compliance topics can be used as a stand-alone solution for a complete compliance training library for your staff. Or you can seamlessly combine your content with our topics. Create learning pathways which mix and match content with common branding and navigation. Build a complete induction solution on your organisation processes and policies.
